A Note from the Chief Operating Officer

Dear Residents and Families,

As summer blooms around us, I am delighted to share some of the joyous moments we have experienced at our nursing home. The warm weather has provided the perfect backdrop for a range of activities, from arts and crafts sessions to themed social gatherings, allowing everyone to enjoy the season in a comfortable and safe environment. Our dedicated staff has been working tirelessly to ensure that every resident has the opportunity to participate in these events, fostering a vibrant and engaging community atmosphere. We are committed to making this summer memorable and filled with laughter and joy for all.

A particularly special highlight of this season was the grand birthday celebration we held for our esteemed centenarians. It was an honor to celebrate the remarkable lives of our residents who have reached and surpassed the milestone of 100 years. The event was filled with music, and decorations, creating an unforgettable experience for everyone involved. Seeing the smiles on the faces of our birthday honorees was truly heartwarming. We look forward to continuing to celebrate these extraordinary lives and creating more cherished memories.

Warm regards,

Michael Felberg

I.T. BYTES! BEWARE OF PHISHING/SCAMMERS!

In this day and age scammers are targeting more and more people over the phone, pretending to be government officials. They tend to focus on older adults and pretend to be from places such as the IRS, Social Security, Medicare or even law enforcement. Remember, no government organization will ever call you demanding payment or request personal information. This form of scam is called Phishing, pronounced fishing, and defrauds Americans of hundreds of millions of dollars each year.

They make claims like if payment isn't made you will lose things such as your Social Security or Medicare benefits, that you could be arrested or deported or worse. Their numbers may even look like they are coming from an actual government number as they have technology called "spoofing" that allows them to pretend to call from any number they want.

One of the things they do is ask for personal information to "confirm" you are you, things such as social security number, birth dates, Medicare numbers and more. This information, once given is used to steal your identity and then used to open things in your name, leaving you responsible for them. Things such as loans, credit cards, purchases and at times even using the information to redirect your payments from Social Security and Medicare to themselves.

So, if you ever get a call demanding payment from anyone claiming to be from a government agency and it isn't through the agency's official site, but instead through a secondary payment form like gift cards, wire transfer or even bitcoin, it is a scam. Never give personal information over the phone to anyone that calls and demands it and never make payments to a stranger calling and claiming you owe money. Remember, their demands and threats hold no power and if it is a legitimate government agency or law enforcement, you should be able to get the same information from their website.
